

Client                      International Sheep Dog Society

The International Sheep Dog Society has over 6,000 members in the UK and further a field and registers Border Collie pups providing an internationally recognised registration number and certificate. This allows pedigrees to be tracked and also records various health aspects of the dogs. The organisation also organise the National and International Sheepdog trials that take place annually.

Critical Issue                      The society had a database in place that recorded member and dog details. The system had been designed some years previously and its performance had reduced to such an extent that it was hampering the administrative process. Also the requirements for health checks had changed meaning that the current system was unable to record all the required details.

Solution                      In conjunction with the Society, Intradev designed an up to date system that could handle the Society's data requirements in a fast, effective manner. A flexible system for handling the various types of memberships and for maintaining the dog health rules was implemented, allowing the Society to easily alter these and thereby keep the system up to date with any changes. The new system was well received by the Society's staff and is felt to be easy to use and more effective than the previous system.

“We have been more than happy with the way that Intradev have worked on this project. They brought a lot of experience from previous tasks which lead to quick solutions. Best of all, the staff I worked with were very able which meant that complex problems were easily solved.”
